

Copyright in BSI publications

All the text, tables and graphics set out in British Standards and other BSI publications are the property of and copyrighted by BSI, or some person or entity that owns copyright in the information used (such as the international standardization bodies) and has formally licensed such information to BSI for commercial publication and use.

Save for the provisions below, you may not transfer, share or disseminate any portion of the standard to any other person. You may not adapt, distribute, commercially exploit, or publicly display the standard or any portion thereof in any manner whatsoever without BSI's prior written consent.

The following terms apply to British Standards and other BSI publications:

Storing and Using standards

Standards purchased in PDF format: -

- A British Standard purchased in electronic format is licensed to a sole named user.
- The standard may be stored on more than 1 device provided that it is accessible by the sole named user only and that only 1 copy is accessed at any one time.
- A single paper copy may be printed for personal or internal company use only.
- The standard may not be forwarded by email or stored on a network.

Standards purchased in hard copy format: -

- A British Standard purchased in hardcopy format is for personal or internal company use only.
- It may not be further reproduced - in any format - to create an additional copy. This includes scanning of the document.

If you need more than 1 copy of the document or if you wish to share the document on an internal network you can save money by choosing a subscription product. Our range of subscription services are designed to make using standards easier for you.
