

Information Security in the Food and Retail Supply Chain

Show that sensitive customer and company information is in safe hands with ISO/IEC 27001:2013

As technology and automation become more advanced, so do the associated cyber security risks.

You simply can't be too careful when it comes to protecting personal records and commercially sensitive information in the food and beverage supply chain.

Just as there are standards for protecting the quality, integrity and safety of your food safety management systems, there is an equivalent for managing information and cyber security. ISO 27001 is the globally adapted and respected standard for managing cyber risks across the supply chain.

By focusing on the key risks to your organization, you can reduce the prevalence and impact of cyber risks, threats and vulnerabilities. Third party certification can provide additional reassurance to key stakeholders that risks are being managed effectively.
